Alliance A-375, a success story from Australia

Mark Dalby from Queensland, Australia owns a New Holland CR9070 Twin Rotor Combine. This machine was engaged in harvesting activities at Emerald, in the northern region of Queensland.

"The tires provided above average traction for our New Holland combine."

The front axles (driven wheels) are installed with 900/60R32 185A8 Alliance A-375 Agri-Star R1-W Radials. The rear axles (free rolling) are equipped with 600/65R28 157A8 Alliance A-360 Super Power Drive R-1 tires.

When the tires were installed in August 2010, the machine had 1366 machine hours. During the time of inspection in April 2011 it had been working for 2073 hours, which is 707 hours, about 8 month.

Mr. Dalby said: "These tires were very steady with no bouncing on tarmac, and provided an extremely comfortable ride on hard surfaces.

In addition, during wheat and peas harvesting in extremely muddy conditions, natural soil conditions here in South Eastern Australian states, the tires provided above average traction! This, in-fact, what the we wanted in the first place from the Allaince tires and were very satisfied to actually get from"

Mr. Dalby also commented that the A-375s are not showing any signs of stubble damage. The tread surface is also very smooth at the base of the lugs. The tires have fared well and have provided commendable service.
