GALAXY HULK TIRES: 'YOU KNEW IT WAS GOING TO LAST'

Indiana farmer and excavation contractor Ray Stradtner has learned a lot about heavy equipment in 41 years in the excavation business. One of the key lessons is to outfit your equipment with tires you can trust.

Stradtner says he's replaced Firestone tires on his John Deere 4WD backhoes with rugged Galaxy Hulk tires when the going gets tough and the sidewalls of his OE tires begin to fail from over-flexing.

"The Galaxy tire did not have that deflection – the sidewalls were terrific," he says. "It was a good, wide-bead tire that fit the rim, with the extra bead around it. When you had a set of them on, you knew it was going to last."

There's no time for downtime on the farm or at a job site, so Stradtner needed a tire that was built to last – and priced to deliver a great return on his investment. Asked to share advice with fellow equipment owners, he said,

One of Mr. Stradtner's backhoes. "These tires will last"

"once they buy a set (of Galaxy Hulk tires), they will last and they will wear."

The Galaxy Hulk features rugged, chip-resistant compound for reliable service on hard surfaces and outstanding wear on rocks and dirt. Its sidewalls are reinforced and its tread is extra deep – 44/32" to 48/32" – for long life and outstanding performance on backhoes, skid steers and small loaders.

"You'll wear the tire out before you cut it or blow the sidewalls," Stradtner predicts.
